Princeton Prospect Foundation Report – February 24th, 2021
Undergraduate Representative: Luisa Chantler Edmond '22, Vice President, ledmond@princeton.edu

Education/Intellectual Engagement:

Despite the unprecedented nature of virtual learning our Cannon members have continued to excel academically. As of May 2020 three of our current members were named academic all-ivy athletes, and more recently Carlie Littlefield '21 has been named the 2021 NJIAIW Woman of the year! While we currently do not have access to the club as a study location we have been looking into revamping spaces such as our computer room and library to ensure we can host academic our members in an increased academic capacity when we are back in person. Over the last few weeks we have been hosting alumni career panels where our members are able to ask specific questions on the pathways into the professions they are interested in. These have been offered via zoom in the realms of Healthcare, Real estate, Law, Engineering, and Tech.

Technology & Media:

2021 is truly the year of Zoom and as a club we have been utilising the platform to allow for our membership to keep in contact while we are unable to socialise in person. For Bicker this year we used a program called Glimpse in order to carry out our conversations and get to know prospective members. While there was a short glitch in the program on the second day of conversations our members rode it out with style and reports from the bickerees were overwhelmingly positive. We have a wealth of technology situated around the club house and while we are unable to use it we have been working on making our social media accounts spectacular. Our Instagram handle is @cannonclub, which in course of a normal year provides updates for both current undergraduates and alumni in regard to community service, intramural sports, student athletic accomplishments, and social calendar highlights. Our website continues to be a place in which updates and important information on club life can be found. We are really eager to keep our alumni up to date and as such we continue to send out newsletters that inform them of what is going on in the club. For the first time we will be using Canva in order to make the graphics sparkle.

Community Service:

This semester sees the beginning of CDE<sup>2</sup>. This group has been formed as part of Cannon's commitment to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion in the club. While we are only just getting started, CDE<sup>2</sup> has already received some very positive feedback and ideas on how to best keep the conversation surrounding Diversity and equity alive amongst our membership. This group has been formed for all of our members, and we intend to ensure everyone feels safe in Cannon. Our members are very active in the community service realm on campus, and we have representatives of EcoReps, Share peers, McGraw tutors and a number of other service orientated groups.

Campus life:

We were all very excited to be invited back to campus this spring, and we have a large number of people who are either living on or off campus who signed the university social contract. We are also extremely excited about the 68 new members we added during bicker, and are really looking forward to getting to know, and spend time with them. Our members come from all walks of campus life and take part in wide ranging extra curricular activities including the BSAC (Black Student Athlete Coalition) Greek life organisations, Wildcats A Capella, Cheerleading, Club Sports, The Daily Princetonian, Outdoor Action, Resident College Assistants, Athletes in Action, Rugby, Nassau Literary Review, Matriculate, SIFP, and Conservation society.

Sustainability:

Cannon remains committed to sustainability as common club practice. In fact commitment to ensuring the club is focusing on ways to reduce our waste and resource usage was a common trend in the speeches of many people running for Officer positions this year! We are looking into various infrastructure changes such as possibly installing solar panels to the roof (non-prospect facing side), as well as starting a cannon vegetable patch at the front of the club to reduce a proportion of our food milage. While we have yet to appoint sustainability chairs in the class of '22 we are hoping to do so in the coming weeks. This report has been written by Luisa Chantler Edmond and in my new role as VP I hope to use my campus role as an EcoRep to establish a closer connection between Cannon with the University Office of Sustainability. This would include highlighting Environmental awareness events and opportunities that are offered on campus.
